Other Events of Outgoing Year Dwarfed By More Snow Than We Really Needed

Snow. That's what everybody will always remember about 1978.

In years to come, you may not be able to recall the year of the parking garage or Those People who tried to buy a house on – was it Hodge Road? – or Governor Byrne's helicopter or the new Trinity organ, but you'll remember what you were doing on Friday, January 20, 1978, when a foot of snow fell on top of the ice of the weekend before, and . . .

Monday, February 6, when Princeton reeled under an additional 15 inches of hard-blowing, hard-driving snow. Sure, it drifted, but those 15 inches weren't in drifts; that was the actual depth.

It all began on Sunday, January 15, when the year was a scant two weeks old. There was an ice storm of the most breath-taking beauty, and the thermometer stayed so low that ice-coated branches remained for two days, dazzling in the bright winter sun.

Then on Tuesday, it snowed. And on Friday, it snowed again.

A lot of us have reason to remember the storms more vividly, perhaps, than most. The Kingston woman, for example, who made it to the Princeton Medical Center on February 6 to give birth to a daughter, a story that mother and child will tell for many years to come.

And the people hospital president John Kauffman called "unsung heroes" – the maintenance staff who kept the hospital entrances free of snow, and the nurses and doctors and volunteers who walked in – miles, for some of them – when cars couldn't make it.

And John Clausen and George Clausen, head of the Township and Borough road crews. Some of them worked 'round the clock, catching naps of an hour or two on cots in the municipal buildings, until the streets were cleared.

Remember how quiet it was, uptown? No trucks on Nassau Street, no cars. Just the soft shushsh of cross-country skiers, delighting in a new way to come up town and shop.

What Township Traffic Officer Sgt. Anthony Nini remembers is the man who called at the height of one of the storms and asked, "Is it OK for me to go for a walk?

But not all the recollections are happy ones. Motorists who left their snowbound cars and found themselves with towing bills amounting to $65 or $70 didn't find the snows quite such an exhilarating lark.

(Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley warned last week that police are going to tow cars away again, if Princeton is snowed in. His research shows, he said, that last winter's towing charges aren't excessive.

Princeton is never really happy unless there's a good, solid controversial issue. This year, it was the Borough's 800-car parking garage, proposed for the parking lot next to the public library.

Month after month the garage dominated the news as its opponents feared it would dominate the skyline.

Plans for Expansion of Palmer Square Now Omit Housing Once Scheduled to Go There for Elderly

As the new citizens Steering Committee for downtown settled into its first meeting Thursday, members learned that the four-part downtown package may have only three parts.

Princeton Community Housing, Inc., has been advised by Palmer Square, Inc., to go outside the Central Business District to find a site for apartments for the elderly. Originally, the apartments were planned for the PSI-owned lot west of the Playhouse. Other parts of the package are the expansion of Palmer Square and the library, and a municipal parking garage.

The Committee agreed with Borough consultants Venturi and Rauch to invite public participation for the first time on January 25.

Mary Yee, project manager for Venturi and Rauch, reviewed package elements: all studies since the 1960s have warned that more downtown parking is needed; expansion of the Square has been under discussion for a long time, but PSI is waiting for a parking solution and fears that delay may make expansion too costly; although the library has authorized its architect to develop detailed plans, there is no source of money for expansion. This is the most amorphous of the four proposals, Ms. Yee said.

"We want to try and put all the pieces together," she explained. "Our job is to answer the question – can they all be accommodated in the CBD?"

Her colleague, James Schmidt, explained that the consultant team – which includes Denise Scott Brown, Venturi and Rauch partner in charge of the project – will assess the physical and social impact of a given part of the package, assess its contribution to the CBD image (does it destroy or enhance?) and consider it in regional perspective, since "Princeton is the center for a large portion of this part of the state and has a clientele beyond the 'right-here'".

In late January, the team expects to recommend two to four alternatives, with a choice of one to pursue further depending on the wishes of citizens and Borough Council.

"The alternatives won't be extremes of high or low density," Ms.

ICE: Pretty, but deadly to trees and shrubs. Sunday, January 15, was marked by brilliant sunshine and an ice-coated landscape as far as the eye could reach. It was the forerunner of an extremely severe winter.

Year-End Review

January: a dozen applicants asked to be selected as the design team ... March: John Fujiwara was the chosen one and Mayor Cawley announced happily that "we hope to zip through the Planning Board so that ground can be broken in October."

May: Library uneasiness began to be evident, although the trustees' chairman said they were not opposed, merely concerned about space between garage and an expanded library. Two points of view were articulated colorfully by a pair of well-known citizens:

"We all want to live in a village and wear three-cornered hats and knee-britches, but we can't" -- John Hammer.

"My gorge rises to think of the library playing second fiddle to a parking garge:" -- Roger McDonough.

June: The Borough invited business firms to sign up for a parking stall in the new building, but residents' protests began to mount and Michael Rockland, of the mayor's own parking committee, announced his opposition.

July: This was the big month. The Environmental Design Review Committee gave its approval but with two negative votes. After three evenings of public hearings, the Planning Board issued a resounding "no!" to the garage plan, with only William H. Walker II casting a "yes" vote.

"We're not against a garage, but against this particular concept and we're ready to go forward," said Planning Board chairman Margen Penick.

August: An angry Mayor Cawley said the Borough wouldn't take the Planning Board to court and wouldn't go ahead anyway with the garage.

Autumn: All during late summer and early fall, Borough and Planning Board discussed the project. Palmer Square president John Moran warned, "If the downtown doesn't improve, it will deteriorate." The Borough decided to hire the planning firm of Venturi and Rauch for $45,000 to work with citizens on an arrangement of the blocks -- garage, Palmer Square and library expansion and elderly housing -- and that's where it all stands as the year ends. (See story, page 1.)

On the Morning of February 6, One Brave Pedestrian

Censorship Debated. Meanwhile, quite a different controversy kept cocktail parties humming. Should high school principal George Petrillo have allowed those four-letter words to remain in the play "Moonchildren?"

In April, Mr. Petrillo, declaring he found the play "obscene, blasphemous and bad," said it couldn't be given by students in the high school unless the language were changed. Barbara Diamond, mother of a cast member and a lawyer herself, went to court.

In the last act of this drama, the playwright agreed that an altered version of his play could be given at the high school ("God!" was allowed or "Damn!" but not both together, the four-letter word for intercourse was excised, but the four-letter word for excrement was allowed). The unexpurgated version was given at the Unitarian Church.

Another year's controversy came to a quiet conclusion: Borough Council, in March, voted to allow recombinant DNA research at the P-3 level of security. Charles Cornforth and Hessie Taft were named liaison to Princeton University's committee concerned with DNA research.

Stoically, Princeton Township learned that the Appellate Court regarded the school financing phase-in law as satisfactory "transitional legislation" and decided not to try for a Supreme Court ruling.

No Half-Way Stand. With many issues, if you care, you care passionately. If you don't care, you may not even be aware that the issue exists. Bike paths, for example.

In the Borough, Elm Road residents charged fully-armed against Council protesting the bike path that will tie up with a Mercer County path and the Township's Great Road path.

In the Township, that same Great Road path was cheerfully attacked all year as "unattractive, littered and dangerous," a poor-spirited attitude, in the eyes of many, considering the fact that the path was generously donated in its entirety by anonymous donors.

Also in the Township, Mercer Road residents, perhaps affected by their proximity to Battlefield Park, brought out the muskets to fight Township Hall: on which side of the road should a bike path be, should it be in the roadway itself or should it even BE? (It will go on the north side.)

Yes, with bike paths and new traffic lights and construction crews at work, the face of Princeton changed in 1978.

A year ago, you could drive straight down Bayard Lane to reach Mountain Avenue. Early this fall, the Route 206 jug-handle and traffic light were installed and now you reach Mountain by a more round-about route.

New Jug-Handle, New Park. If you like to fish, stroll through the woods, or have a family picnic, you probably explored that new wooded "Community Park North" park, reached by the new jug-handle. (J. Seward Johnson's fisherman and his son statues are new country cousins of his Borough Hall and Palmer Square statues.) Later, if the Jaycees raise the money, a physical fitness path will wind through the park, and maybe the summer of 1979 will see the hoped-for amphitheatre built.

One thing Princeton doesn't want changed is the width of

SUN DAY WAS APTLY NAMED: Originally scheduled for Saturday, May 6, Sun Day, the Rites of Spring affair planned by the Arts Council, was postponed 24 hours by rain. When it did take place on Sunday, partially sunny weather mede the decision to wait a good one. (Grant Peterson photo)

Route 206. Citizens and municipal officials made that point loud and clear, when Department of Transportation planners bravely crossed the Princeton frontier to propose widening Bayard Lane by ten feet. Don't worry, they promised: we'll keep it two lanes.

Detours around the Stony Brook bridge, closed in May by the county because its 170-year-old mortar was failing, are just a temporary change for the town. Everybody seems agreed that a new four-lane bridge would be an abomination (politically, anyway).

Skylines changed here and there. The hospital's new garage promised to open up congested parking. The hospital's new addition promised even better medical care, and in the summer, the institution won a battle with the state and permission to provide 30 more beds.

Phoenix-like, the new Benson building on Witherspoon is rising from the ruins of the fire that destroyed it two years ago this January, and Hill's Market, destroyed in that fire, came back in July to a new State Road location.

Just a hole in the ground now, but soon the new Princeton High gym will alter the configuration of the building. It's part of full-scale remodeling approved by voters just one year ago.

Use What You Have. Some existing buildings looked toward a new future: the town's elderly residents asked, in November, for use of the cinder-block gym behind Borough Hall that was once part of a private school for girls ... the Township made plans to move offices into the old Valley Road school building ... in August, the Christian Center bought the church at Nassau and Chambers often known as St. Andrews, but actually part of Nassasu Presbyterian. ... the Episcopalians repaired Trinity's tower and installed a splendid new organ ...

The "Dinky" station may yet be a restaurant: the Victoria Station restaurant chain has applied for the Pink Elephant liquor license. (Plans call for some restaurant proceeds to help finance operation of the Dinky.) ... the recreation department suggested a half-million "bubble" to keep the swimming pools open year-'round.

And always, there was housing. "Constitution Hill's" developer-owner decided not to include flats, after all, although the Township had decided he could. Another landmark property, the Bush house and grounds on Markham, was approved for development, but is stalled in the courts by a suit from neighbor Timothy J. Sheehan. The Institute for Advanced Study announced innovative housing for its farm-lands.

Quietly, 100 families moved, in December, into Redding Terrace, the public housing complex so bitterly fought by Mt. Lucas Road neighbors in the mid-1970s. Daring -- for their day -- the integrated Glen Acres houses also had a quiet celebration: their 20th anniversary.

If you wanted to buy a house in Princeton in 1978, you were faced with a median price of $140,000. .

Some people who did try to buy a house here enlivened the summertime news. The "Circle of Friends," often described as "a semi-religious cult," wanted the state-owned 142 Hodge Road house but backed down under outraged neighborhood pressure. They didn't do too badly: sold the house to a stockbroker for $235,000 -- a $25,000 profit.

Controversial Whirty-Bird. Did Governor Brendan T. Byrne really plan to change the face of Princeton? A helistop on Princeton Battlefield! Talk about outrage! Faced, in October, by numerically superior forces, the Governor retreated to West Windsor where his helicopter is apparently more welcome.

"Landmarks," did someone say? So much protest from University, Seminary, hospital, realtors, merchants, that the Borough sent its proposal ordinance back into the history books.

"We're not going to put every damn house on the inventory, but if we allow this ordinance to slip away and we're left with a mishmash, we'll all lose." That's James Sayen speaking. The future will tell.

The unfinished Sheehan building, something of a landmark itself, went up for sale. The Borough denied building permits to complete the structure until the municipal engineer is satisfied about structural suundness.

SHEEHAN SUES AGAIN

PSI and Borough. Timothy J. Sheehan, who once sued Borough officials who he said were harassing him, has again filed suit against the Borough.

This time, his suit is against the Borough Zoning Board and Palmer Square, Inc. He charges that the board had no grounds for giving the PSI corporation permission to remove a loading dock in the rear of the One Palmer Square building to put in a pastry shop.

Still pending is Mr. Sheehan's suit against the Borough and Design Interface to prevent development of the George Bush property at Nassau and Markham. Mr. Sheehan also sued regarding zoning variances granted the Alchemist and Barrister Restaurant and Dr. I. Andrew Shelpuk. Superior Court threw out both cases.

In an earlier suit against Design Interface, he protested variances granted for the Willow Street townhouses. Design Interface then developed the property in such a way that variances were not required. He has also sued unsuccessfully, regarding zoning relief granted to the Medical Center.

Mr. Sheehan has been in court often with the Borough since passage of the 1968 zoning ordinance affected construction of his still-unfinished office building at Nassau and Markham.

Word of Warning

"When the days
Begin to lengthen,
Then the cold begins
To strengthen."
Old wives' wisdom,
Sometimes true:
I'd bundle up,
If I were you.

Although December will depart with a warmer than normal mark, the year's last few days will be cold. So, if you back on it as a whole, has been 1978.

Precipitation is due again by the weekend. It might be while this time, the Man says, noting that the month has been quite deficient in snowfall.

CAR STRUCK IN REAR

Three Are Injured. Three persons sustained minor injuries Friday when a car stopped on route 27, waiting to make a left turn onto Shady Brook Lane, was struck in the rear by another car.

Annis D. Mayes, 71, 44 Shady Brook, told police that her turn signal was flashing when she was struck around 1 p.m. The other driver, Mark L. Greenberg, 29, of Randolph told police he had not seen the brake or turning lights of the Mayes car but Pt. Virgil Angelini charged him with careless driving after he checked and found them to be in working order.

Mr. Greenberg received lacerations of the face; Mrs. Mayes contusions and abrasions of the head. Her passenger, Ella Lake, 61, of New York, complained of back pains. All were treated at Princeton Medical Center. Both cars had to be towed away.

Totalled. A 1970 sedan was a total loss when it skidded out of control on an icy curve on Mount Lucas Road last Wednesday, spun around, went up an embankment and flipped over on its roof.

The driver, Lourdes I. Triana, 31, of Kendall Park, told police she hit an icy patch while rounding the curve on an upgrade some 800 feet from Herrontown Road. Ptl. William Potts described the road surface as very slippery at the time.

The victim was treated at the Medical Center for back pains.

Township police also investigated several other accidents that occured last Wednesday evening when, during a short period, roads became ice coated. None resulted in injury to the drivers.

IS DRIVE-IN ALLOWED?

N.J. Nattonal Asks. New Jersey National Bank will ask the Township Zoning Board this Wednesday (7:30 p.m., Township Hall) whether a drive-in bank is allowed in the Office-Research zone. The bank would like to build one on North Harrison, north of American Can.

In other business, the board will consider the request of Dr. A. Bruce Lampert to enlarge his dental offices at 204 North Harrison. The building is a combination office-residence.

HER PURSE GRABBED

By Two Youths. A 47-year old Princeton resident had her purse snatched by two youths, as she was walking on William Street last Wednesday evening shortly before 6. Police said she fought back and tried to hang onto her purse but the pair managed to wrestle it away.

It contained $20, a $20 check from the University Store and credit cards. The youths fled across Nassau Street behind Davidson's Market.

One was described as white, 15 to 18, 5-7 to 5-8, slight, wearing a blue down jacket and dark wool watch-type cap; the second as white, 14 to 15, about 6-3, thin, wearing a dark jacket and skull cap with a ball on top.

Hitchhtker Robbed. Hopewell Township police report that a North Jersey resident, Roger Brown, was robbed Sunday by three men who picked him up as he was hitchhiking at dusk near Route 518 Spur off Route 31.

Mr. Brown told Ptl. Kenneth Beckman tbat he was beaten by one of the three and threatened several times by the other two, who, he said, carried long knives. They robbed him of $240 and his wedding ring.

The driver of the car, which had Texas license plates, was described as about [illegible] feet tall with dark hair. He was wearing a fatigue jacket. Police in the area were alerted.

DOG IS CAUGHT

By Coon Traps. A case wherein a year-old male Husky was caught in two leghold traps has been turned over by Township police to a N.J. Conservation officer for possible further action. Such traps, commented Chief Frederick Porter, are illegal in New Jersey.

The owner of the dog, Steven Kerney, 590 Great Road, called police Saturday to report that the left front and right rear legs of his Husky had been broken when he was caught in two traps that had been set in a small stream at the rear of his property. The traps were traced to Robert Berger of the Great Road.

Apparently, police said, Mr. Berger had been trying to catch muskrats with coon traps. Police were notified at 2:30 of the incident.

Michael Kahn Will Leave McCarter in June; Martenson, Managing Director, Also Resigns

Michael Kahn is leaving McCarter. The president of McCarter's trustees, Robert J. Paulus, made the announcement this week. Mr. Kahn, whose title is Producing Director, said that, after five seasons at the theatre, he has decided "not to seek renewal" of his contract when it expires in June.

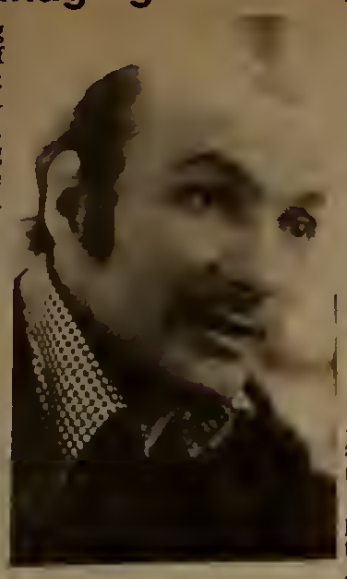
At the same time, Mr. Paulus announced that the theatre's managing director, Edward Martenson, will be leaving at the end of the current season. He has been with McCarter since 1972.

The two resignations are not linked, Mr. Paulus emphasized.

The remainder of the current season will continue as planned, and Mr. Kahn is on the program as director of the next play, "Put Them All Together," by Anne Commire, and, to follow, John Webster's "The White Devil." He has been in New York at the Manhattan Theatre Club, directing Eduardo DeFillippo's "Grand Magic," which opened Tuesday.

Trustees will begin to search immediately for a successor to Mr. Kahn, Mr. Paulus said, drawing on possible suggestions from Mr. Kahn himself and from trustees with connections in the theatre.

In addition, he said, McCarter will probably be in touch with the Theatre Communications Group and employment agencies in the field, and he added that the announcement itself will undoubtedly draw applications. Speculation around Princeton centers on the possibility that Dan Seltzer, a trustee and former president of McCarter's trustees, might step into the Kahn position.



Michael Kahn
In 5 Years,
Attendance Is Up 300%

No Deadline Set. "There is no deadline for making a choice," Mr. Paulus said. "It depends on who is available and what the trustees decide about the future of the theatre.

"When the two top positions are open at the same time," he explained, "there is a question whether the actual structure should be kept or changed. It's an institution that has grown with time, and this is a point at which we might ask 'Where are we and where are we going?'"

In explaining his departure, Mr. Kahn said, in a formal statement, that he will miss the theatre.

"Its rise to national prominence and contribution to the cultural life of New Jersey during my five seasons leave me with a sense of pride.

"However, over the past ten years, I have become increasingly involved in the administrative and fund-raising activities of the institutions with which I've been associated; I now feel that it is time to divest myself of these responsibilities in order to pursue the more creative aspects of my profession."

Attendance Triples. McCarter says that, in Mr. Kahn's five seasons, attendance for McCarter productions has trebled. In that time, two plays have traveled to Broadway and one has been presented on nationwide television. Mr. Kahn has directed 14 productions, including O'Neill's "Beyond the Horizon," Brecht's "Mother Courage," "Romeo and Juliet" and "The Winter's Tale," Tennessee Williams' "A Streetcar Named Desire," Per Olov Enquist's "The Night of the Tribades," Ruth and Augustus Goetz' "The Heiress" and Turgenev's "A Month in the Country."

Mr. Paulus expressed his regret that Mr. Kahn and Mr. Martenson will no longer be with the theatre.

"Their work together over the past five years in the development, direction, and management of McCarter has been in large measure the basis of McCarter's current status as a leading resident theatre," he said.

Purcell. Different programs will be presented each of the two nights, and each performance will start at 8 p.m.

On Friday, the dancers will open with "S'Wonderful," to music by George Gershwin. Wayne himself will be featured in "Ramifications," set to music of Ligeti and Purcell. The program will also include "Moments," to music of Robert Schumann and "Time Out of Mind," to music by Paul Creston. Choreographers represented are Frank Ohman, Rudi Van Dantzig, Ingal Perry and Brian Macdonald.

Saturday's program will feature electronically synthesized music for one presentation, and Gian-Carlo Menotti and Johann Sebastian Bach in other parts of the program.

"CROSSROADS"

Black, Hispanic Theatre. The first production of Crossroads, a black and hispanic theatre formed under the auspices of the George Street Playhouse, will be "First Breeze of Summer," a family drama by Leslie Lee which will open February 3.

Crossroads is funded for one year by a $206,000 grant from the Middlesex County CETA. It will present three full productions, and theatre workshops, with all productions open to the public free of charge. Included in the 22-member staff are seven full-time performers.

A playwriting contest has been announced by producer Rick Kahn. Five manuscripts will be chosen for staged readings, and a winner selected from the five. The playwright will then work with the artistic director and actors to develop the script into a polished work for full-stage presentation in September.

The theatre is in New Brunswick at 320 Memorial Parkway, between Hiram and Church Streets. Additional information may be obtained by writing the George Street Playhouse, 414 George Street, New Brunswick, 08901, or calling 201-846-2895 or 201-249-5561.

GRANT TO PLAYHOUSE

In New Brunswick. A grant of $2,500 from the Ford Foundation has been given to the George Street Playhouse in New Brunswick in recognition of the Playhouse's presentation of four new American plays within its first four years of production. The grant is part of the Foundation's New American Plays Program.

For its fifth season, the Playhouse has scheduled two premieres. On January 12, it will present "Pettycoat Lane," a musical comedy by Judd Woldin, who wrote "Raisin." On March 23, the Playhouse offering will be a new American drama. Eric Krebs, artistic director of the Playhouse, is still reading scripts and has not yet announced his choice.

In previous years, the Playhouse has presented "Paris Was Yesterday," based on the personal memoirs of Janet Flanner; Mr. Krebs' "Brothers," Jo Hart's "The Memoirs of Charlie Pops" and, in 1974, a pair of one-act plays: "Kheef," by Maria Irene Fornes, and "Night of the Large Few Stars," by Mr. Krebs.

CLASSES LISTED

By Creative Theatre. To celebrate its 10th anniversary season in Princeton, Creative Theatre Unlimited is presenting a series of classes and activities in theatre arts for the middle and high school student.

New this year is the high school acting lab, a Saturday morning class for grades 9-12, taught by a professional acting teacher from New York. Students work on creating a character through scene work and play analysis. Will M. Weiss, a Brandeis-trained director and teacher, is keeping the class small to allow for individual attention.

The 6th-8th grade acting class, which meets Tuesday afternoons from 4 to 5:30, concentrates on the environment of the actor: how to use where you are to create who you are. Classes are taught by Pam Hoffman, director of CTU's Performance Troupe and a three-year veteran at CTU.

Special activities for this age group are mini-courses which occur on Saturday afternoons throughout the term. Beginning directing, a course for high school students interested in learning how to direct a play, will meet January 20 and 27, and will be taught by Mr. Weiss. Students are encouraged to bring in plays they would like to direct, for consultation with Mr. Weiss.

For 6-8th graders there will be a mime class on February 24 and March 3, taught by professional mime David F. Barker. And for the shutter bug, there is "The Visual Image: Photography From The Ground Up," which will meet February 10 and 17.

For information on the above classes and mini-courses, call 924-3489. Classes are small, so early registration is advised.

'THREE ANGELS' DUE

At Lawrenceville School. The Lawrencevilele Faculty Players are preparing "My Three Angels" by Bella and Samuel Spewack for presentation in Lawrenceville's Kirby Arts Center on January 5 and 6.

A droll, sentimental fantasy adapted from Albert Husson's "La Cuisine des Anges," the play is set in Cayenne, French Guiana, at Christmas 1910. It relates the story of three Devil's Island convicts who with comic aplomb solve the problems of a beleaguered family. The New York Times called it "one of the delights of the season" when it opened on Broadway in 1953.

The Lawrenceville cast includes veterans of previous productions Carty Lynch, Bernie Loux, Gray Akers, Ginnie Chambers, T. J. Johnston, and Edith Eglin and newcomers Tom Sharp, Betsy Stephens and Frank Collins. The group came into being with a production of Shaw's "Don Juan in Hell" in 1974. Subsequently they have presented Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest" and Garson Kanin's "Born Yesterday."

Tickets at $2 ($1 for students) are available at The Jigger Shop in Lawrenceville or at the door on the nights of the performances. Curtain rises at 8.

TRIO GIVES CONCERT

At Community Park School. The New Millstone Trio, playing under the auspices of Young Audiences of New Jersey, gave two concerts for the students at Community Park School last Wednesday.

The Trio includes Jayn Rosenfeld, flute; Elaine Banks, cello; and Phyllis A.

Lehrer, pianist. Using a dialogue approach to let children learn about music for themselves, they ask questions and play short pieces which suggest answers. The questions concern melody; rhythm and texture; instruments and how performers are creative; and how feelings are expressed through music.

Ms. Rosenfeld, who has performed as first flutist and soloist with the Philharmonia Orchestra and the Princeton Chamber Orchestra, teaches flute at Princeton University. Ms. Banks is principal cellist with the Trenton Symphony and performs frequently in chamber ensembles and as a recitalist in the Princeton and Philadelphia areas.

Ms. Lehrer is chairman of the piano department at Westminster Choir College. She has given concerts extensively in New York, Massachusetts, California and New Jersey.

Young Audiences is a non-profit tax exempt organization that brings arts-in-education programs to schools, libraries and museums. It receives partial support from the New Jersey State Council on the arts and the Musicians Performance Trust Funds.

TWO FILMS PLANNED

For Children at Library. The Princeton Public Library will present two classic films for children during the holidays.

They are "The Red Balloon," which will be shown Wednesday, December 27 at 10 and at 3:30, and "The Secret Garden," which may be seen Thursday, December 28, also at 10 and 3.

"The Red Balloon" is suggested for pre-school ages and up, and "The Secret Garden," starring Margaret O'Brien, Herbert Marshall, Dean Stockwell and Gladys Cooper, is recommended for those age six and older. No tickets are required.

Due to the crowds that came to see "Heidi," the Library has scheduled the extra morning showings at 10.

YWCA OFFERS YARIETY

In Winter Courses. A jazz-blues workshop for teens, chair caning for adults, and mother-toddler dance are three of over 20 new programs offered by the YWCA this winter.

Registration for the winter term will be held on Saturday, January 6 from 9-2:30 and on Monday, January 8, from noon to 8:30 at the YM-YWCA building, Paul Robeson Place.

A young artists program will help grade-schoolers explore the world of painting, sculpting, collage, watercolor and other art forms. For teens the 10-week jazz-blues workshop will concentrate on the history, performance and development of these musical styles.

Teens may also prepare for a job with the YWCA's youth work training course. A certificate that can be used when applying for camp counselor, babysitting or nursery school type postions will be awarded those completing the program.

Chair caning will be taught in five sessions for adults and can be followed by a two-session chair rushing course. "First Steps in Art" will allow beginners an opportunity to study painting, color relationship and composition.

One course will help women in their twenties explore ways of building sell-confidence, developing new friendships and clarifying goals. Another is for women trying to cope with saying goodbye to friends and family and is called "Hello And Goodbye." The challenging conflicts and changes of the teenage years will be discussed by parents in "Living With Your Adolescent."

Courses are also offered in such things as renovating out-of-date clothes, French cuisine and financial management. The YWCA's health, physical education and recreation department offers many programs in sports, swimming and physical fitness of all types.

OFFICERS ELECTED

By Lawrence Seniors. The Lawrence Township Senior Citizens Club 1 will meet Tuesday at the Lawrence Township Municipal Building. There will be games at 11:30 and a business meeting at 1.

The newly-elected officers for 1979 will be installed. They are Harold Karthauser, president; Marie Schultz, vice-president' Lillian Fallon, secretary; and Don Mathews, treasurer.

FAMILY NIGHT SET

At Skating Center. Friday night has been designated Family Night at the Mercer County Skating Center, it was announced by the Mercer County Park Commission.

The rink is reserved from 6 to 8 for children under age 12 accompanied by a parent. Rates are $1 for children and $2 for adults.

"We're very pleased with the support this program has received," said Park Commission president Richard J. Coffee, "and we hope that even more families will discover how enjoyable a night on the ice can be."

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

'We Came to Take This Rug to Be Cleaned,' They Said, Leaving with $50,000 Oriental

An oriental rug in soft shades of blue, beige and terra cotta, measuring 14 feet, 7½ inches by 19 feet, 5 inches, has been stolen from the living room of Princeton Seminary's Building for Continuing Education, 12 Library Place. Police said the rug was valued at approximately $50,000.

About 11:45 last Wednesday morning, two men alighted from a step-in van with the words "Rug Cleaning" written on the side, entered the building, announced that they were from a rug cleaning firm, rolled up the rug and carried it out. There had been an internal discussion about cleaning the rug prior to the theft, police added.

Police were notified at 3:30 that the rug had been taken and presumed stolen. They have a description of one of the suspects: 5-10, dark hair, clean shaven, wearing dark shoes and pants and a navy-colored jacket with fur collar and a zipper in the front and another on the left sleeve.

Also stolen last week were a $20,000 oil truck, a 1974 Datsun, two front bucket seats from a 1970 sedan and four hubcaps valued at $240.

The fully loaded oil truck, parked in the lot of the Nassau Oil Company, 800 State Road, was taken last week between 9 p.m. and 3:30 a.m. It was found abandoned in the driveway of the Johnson estate, Jasna Polana, on Route 206 by a Johnson security officer, who called the oil company.

The white Datsun was stolen from Jefferson Road either Thursday or Friday and recovered Saturday afternoon on Mulberry Row in Princeton Community Village. It is owned by a Princeton resident.

The two bucket seats were removed during the night from a car parked in a Magie Apartment lot off Faculty Road. Police said screws had been removed to free the seats -- disproving the belief that thieves will take anything that isn't bolted down.

The hubcaps were stolen from a 1977 car parked in the Tulane West yard. The victim was a Robbinsville resident.

In two other larcenies involving cars, an AM-FM stereo cassette player and ten tapes valued at $250 were stolen last week from an unlocked car parked in a garage at the rear of the Pink Elephant on Nassau Street, and 15 8-track tapes valued at $60 were stolen from a car parked on Elm Road. It was parked in the drive of the owner, police said.

Electric Cord Capers. A 100-foot yellow electric cord and three 10-foot extension cords, part of a Christmas display on Westcott Road, were stolen and in a second theft on Westcott the same day, a 50-foot electric cord running from the house to tree lights in the front yard was taken.

On Library Place, two light bulbs were taken from a fixture in front of the house.

HOME IS RANSACKED

Loss is $2,017. A Random Road home was entered and ransacked last week and items with a total value of $2,017 were stolen. There were no signs of forced entry, police report.

Among the articles taken were a Nikon camera, stereo amplifier ($450), tape deck ($350), a grey Chesterfield coat ($275) and a British coat ($300). Ptl. David Funk investigated.

There were eight break-ins with larceny reported by Borough police last week -- two on Madison Street. A 14-inch black and white television set was taken from one Madison home, where the thief punched in a window at the rear; and a wallet containing $20 to $25 was taken from a kitchen table from another home on the same street. A rear door had been forced open, police said.

A Moore Street home, entered last month but not reported until last week, yielded a camera, wide angle lens and a man's grey wool coat. Total loss: $550.

When a Pine Street resident returned home at 7:30 last Wednesday, she put her pocketbook on a table and lay down for a nap. At 10:10, a Jefferson Road resident called to report he had her pocketbook. An intruder, police said, had pried open sliding doors while the victim slept to enter the house.

An unknown number of checks made out to the Eden Institute were stolen during the weekend from the Nassau Christian Center, 26 Nassau Street -- a Chambers Street entrance had been pried open -- and two floors of a Greenview Avenue home were ransacked between 3 Sunday afternoon and 1:30 Christmas morning. A basement window had been kicked in but police report they are unable to say yet if anything was taken.

A $300 color TV set and approximately $60 in change from an upstairs bedroom were taken from a Wiggins Street home where a front door window was broken to gain entry.

A purse left in Trinity Church was stolen from the church office at 33 Mercer Street. It contained several dollars, two rings valued at $50 and credit cards.

Police said it had been found in the church and taken to the pastor's office for safekeeping. They believe the thief may have attended a service in the church and stayed there overnight. Entry to the office was placed between 1:30 and 8:30 a.m. Christmas Day. Other items in the office were not touched, police said.

Still Counting . . .

A manager at the Acme Store in the Princeton Shopping Center reported Tuesday that money taken from a store safe in an armed holdup by two men December 16 "is still being audited by our accounting department."

Chief Frederick Porter said that he has not received any communication from store officials since the theft but his department is continuing its investigation.

MORE MAILBOXES DOWN

In Township. Another battle was fought last week in the war between Township police and mailbox vandals.

Between Friday and Sturday, seven mailboxes in the Dodds Lane, Poe Road, Rollingmeade and Shady Brook areas were smashed by a blunt instrument. Police report one victim heard a noise around midnight but did not look outside. All the damaged mailboxes had been lifted off their posts, police added.

SELL HOME YOURSELF?

"I'm sure you've heard it said: "Why should I sell my home through a REALTOR? I can sell it myself and save a lot of money." Right?...Wrong!

This kind of thinking usually turns out to be financially unwise. The prospects will usually start by mentally deducting the commission and then start negotiating from there. On the average, a homeowner saves NO money when he sells his own home. In fact, the opposite is true. Studies over a ten year period show that the net proceeds from owner-sold property are LESS than the REALTOR-sold piece of real estate, even after the payment of commission.

As a private seller you're at a great disadvantage in the intricate areas of financing, negotiating and protecting yourself from all sorts of do-it-yourself pitfalls. You've got a lot invested in your home. It makes sense to list it with a realtor. He'll sell it for you--without hitches--for the best price and in the shortest amount of time.

Traditionally, the town is invited to the New Year's Day reception held after Borough and Township governments re-organize for the year ahead. Republicans and Democrats alternate as hosts, and this year, the Democratic Club is the host and everyone in town is invited to be a guest.

The party will begin at noon at the North Harrison Street firehouse. Re-organizations take place at noon also – in Borough and Township Halls. In past years, the party has begun following the organization meetings but this year's hosts have made a change.

APPLICATIONS DUE

For Soroptimist Award. The deadline for the receipt of applications for the annual Soroptimist and McCall Life-Pattern Fund Training Awards is Saturday. The awards are designed for mature women in upward mobility and in their efforts toward retraining and entry or re-entry into the labor market.

The Princeton Soroptimist winner will be entered into the Soroptimist North Atlantic Regional competition where three awards will be made, two of $1,250 each funded by the Soroptimist Foundation and one of $2,500 funded by the McCall Life-Pattern Fund.

Women age 30 or older who are interested should write or call Mrs. Lucilla Tilton, 112 Green Lane, Trenton, 883-1468.

NEW MAP AVAILABLE

Of New Jersey. The 1978-79 edition of the official state map and guide will soon be available free of charge. The map has been prepared by the Deparment of Transportation with the cooperation of the Department of Labor and Industry.

Requests for the map may be directed to the Division of Travel and Tourism, Department of Labor and Industry, P.O. Box 400, Trenton, telephone 292-2470.

HAVE A DRINK ...

Of Turnpike Coffee. Free coffee "for safety's sake" will again be available to motorists traveling the New Jersey Turnpike on New Year's Eve.

Now in its 18th year, the program aims to promote safety on the Turnpike and alert motorists generally that caution behind the wheel is the "best route" for a happy holiday season.

Turnpike officials note that taking time out for a coffee break is one way to overcome fatigue and drowsiness, a frequent cause of senseless accidents. Marriott Corporation, operator of the toll road's service area restaurants, will be providing coffee, tea or milk at the 13 rest stops on Sunday night from 9 p.m. to 7 a.m.

A total of 3845 containers, mostly coffee, was served last year.

Palmer Square Plans

Scott Brown said, "that would be false alternatives."

In late January, the team expects to recommend two to four alternatives, with a choice of one to pursue further depending on the wishes of citizens and Borough Council.

"The alternatives won't be extremes of high or low density," Ms. Scott Brown said, "that would be false alternatives."

From the Committee, Ann McGoldrick said the assumption seemed to be that all four proposals were for the CBD and asked whether the group shouldn't be starting with "a clean slate." Mayor Robert W. Cawley said that since the four projects have all been proposed, they are all included, although they are not "held" to CBD sites.

Member Kathy Edwards, representing the neighborhood north of Palmer Square, asked how far north PSI planned to go. PSI President John P. Moran said PSI "has no intention of acquiring property north of Paul Robeson Place."

Ms. Scott Brown remarked that "neighborhood representatives will be vying for our time with regionally-oriented people," and she emphasized the importance of a representative Steering Committee.

Ralph Hulit Jr. and Everett Garretson spoke for merchants. Mr. Garretson, whose family owns Clayton's, said more than 40 percent of his regular customers come from outside Prioceton. Mr. Hulit of Hulit's Shoes, said Princeton merchants need more customers and do not fear competition. "There aren't enough shoe stores in Princeton," he smiled.

Mr. Moran observed that any successful downtown is going to be busy, and if anyone can find a parking space anytime, there is too much parking.

Planning Board chairman Margen Penick said the explosive growth of nearby communities was an opportunity for Princeton -- "Draw them here to form their shopping habits," she said, and Ms. Scott Brown recommended signs that could be read by motorists, advising them what's going on in Princeton, where the attractions are and what the stores are.

Committee and consultants will meet again January 18.

—Katharine H. Bretnall

BURGLAR IS CHARGED

With Fraud, Forgery. David Toole, 40, no known address, has been charged by Borough police with larceny of ten blank checks, possession of stolen property, attempted fraud and attempted forgery. He is presently in jail in lieu of $250 bail, waiting his court appearance here February 7.

The checks were allegedly stolen from a basement of a rented home on Spruce Street. The owner called police and reported that an undetermined number of his checks had been stolen when Toole apparently began cashing them around town. Toole had two of the stolen checks in his possession, police said, when he was arrested early Saturday afternoon on Lytle Street.

William Moffo, 52, 321 Ewing Street, was arrested and charged with obstructing and interfering after he allegedly created a disturbance at 12:59 Sunday morning in a waiting room in the emergency section at Princeton Medical Center.

Police reported finding him lying across three seats in the waiting room under the influence of alcohol. He allegedly was using obscenities and refused to leave. He was taken to police headquarters and later released. His court appearance has been scheduled for January 17.

A 14-year old Princeton girl was arrested last week, after she allegedly shoplifted a $27 sweater and a $20 knife set from Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center.

She was turned over to the Township juvenile officer for processing. Police said she told authorities that she took the items for Christmas gifts.

FIRST MEETING PLANNED

By Holistic Group. The Holistic Health Association of the Princeton Area will hold its first annual meeting Wednesday, January 3, at 8 in the convocation room of the Engineering Quad, Olden and William Streets. The purpose is to elect officers, approve by-laws, and talk about plans for next year. The Association invites all who are interested in holistic health to come and participate.

This meeting is the outgrowth of six months of preparation which began with a handful of people gathering to discuss their ideas for a center dedicated to the maintenance of optimum health. Now there is a rapidly growing membership working to make this happen in Princeton. A great deal has already been accomplished:

- An office for information about the concept of holistic health and a lending library of books and tapes for educational purposes has opened at 360 Nassau Street, across the hall from the Whole Earth Center. The phone number is 924-8580.
- An informational display of reading materials will be on view at the Princeton Public Library in January.
- A stress reduction workshop led by Dr. Lester Fehmi will be held for eight consecutive weeks beginning January 17, sponsored by the HHAPA. For further information, call the Association office at 924-8580 or Garnette Ross at 924-7707.

According to president-elect Harriet Bogdonoff, the Holistic Association is "a group of area individuals, both lay and professional, who strongly believe that the principles of holistic health are the way to future health care. The Association's accomplishments thus far have been made possible by membership dues and contributions. We urge all who are concerned with holistic health to join us and help us to continue to expand our operations."

AUDITIONS PLANNED

For Talent Show. The West Windsor Recreation Department's annual talent show will start Friday evening, January 5, with auditions at the High School auditorium, beginning at 7. Those chosen will perform in the finals on January 26 at the school.

The program is open to all township school children. There is no fee to enter and awards will be given to the best acts. Pre-registration is currently being held at the Recreation office.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

(The following information was researched and written by members of the Regional Schools PTO Council, and the opinions expressed are not those of TOWN TOPICS.)

STUDENT SERVICES IS NOT a household word; it is not in the public eye in contrast to athletic teams, performance groups, or academic award recipients. Few people – except for pupils with learning problems and their parents – know much about this part of Princeton Regional Schools, yet the work of a team of specialists is available to all students, not just those with diagnosed learning difficulties.

Last spring the League of Women Voters published a booklet, edited by Chrystal Shivell and Sharon Tomalin, based on League studies; it traced the growth and development of Student Services here. School-by-school information, district programs, plus State and Federal regulations were thoroughly covered. The scope was wide (39 pages plus graphs and charts) and deep (from pre-Beadleston Act days in 1959 to current pending legislation).

HOW BIG IS STUDENT SERVICES? Child Study team members (psychologists, social workers, learning disability consultants), Special Education staff and aides, English as a second language teachers, and speech therapists number nearly26 full-time positions. Still others combine with this core group to work toward a more thorough understanding and treatment of students' problems: nurses, supplementary instructors, guidance, compensatory education and Title I teachers. Three doctors and a child psychiatrist are available for consultation if needed.

HOW MUCH DOES IT COST? About 8.9 percent of the school budget goes for Student Services: out-of-district placements, staff supplies, and hourly tutors' salaries all combine for a total of $739,400.00. State aid does help somewhat, but current funding is only about 21 percent of cost, even though the services are required by the Education Act.

HOW MANY STUDENTS ARE SERVED? Out-of-district, special education, and ESL students number 121 – or 4 percent of the student body; by including speech remediation, the total jumps to 302 – or 10 percent. Added to this, the Compensatory and Title I students (662) make about 22 percent of the Princeton Regional students involved in Student Services' aid. These figures are based on an October 1, 1978 report, but do not take into account the numerous "drop-in" pupils served with a lesser frequency or intensity than those who are regularly scheduled.

HOW ARE STUDENTS HELPED? The words "most appropriate-least restrictive environment" come from the Education Act in describing placement of children. The list of handicaps is wide-ranging from major to minor to multiply handicapped classifications. Student Services pairs a program to the disability; children who are referred and diagnosed for special help are then placed within the setting deemed best for their needs. Major re-examination occurs, by law, every three years; in reality, evaluation of a child's progress is more frequent.

WHAT IS THE PARENTS' ROLE? Parents must be notified if and when their child is referred to the child study team. Parents are then involved in the study and also in drawing up an individualized educational plan for the child. A group, the Princeton Committee for Special Education, has been formed here to study, to help, to learn, and to question so that all parents may be aware of the programs in Special Education at PRS.

LITTLEBROOK SCHOOL'S first graders in Mrs. Brecht's Friday afternoon club have had parents and friends share a number of exciting doing and learning activities this past month: Swedish gymnastics, Greek slide show, dances and food, and craft projects for gifts and fun.

MR. LONG'S CLASS AT RIVERSIDE school has been studying vertebrates and invertebrates. With the aid of a microscope and water samples from Lake Carnegie, they found many living things – including protozoa, an invertebrate; drinking water proved to be not so "lively".

EVEN THE ADMINISTRATORS of PRS get the opportunity to go "back-to-school" and study. A recent all-day workshop to improve their skills in teacher observation and evaluation had a follow-up day of practice to sharpen their talents in this area.

COVENANT SERVICE SET

By Nassau Church. The Nassau Presbyterian Church, Nassau Street and Palmer Square, will hold a Covenant Service Sunday at 10.

This service was first used centuries ago by John Wesley as a Watch Night or New Year's Eve worship service. As the Nassau Church bulletin puts it, "It is a moment of recommitment, a looking back with humility and a looking forward with hope. The joy of the Christmas season brings with it serious reflection about the living of our days, and New Year's resolutions are a way of acknowledging that the Christ event has filled everyday life with purpose and possibility."

TO HOLD SERVICE

In University Chapel. Traditional and modern carols will be featured in the Festival Service of Lessons and Carols Sunday at 11 when the five choirs of Trinity Church will sing in the Princeton University Chapel.

By invitation from the University Chapel Choir, Prof. Walter Nollner, director, and the Dean of the Chapel, Dr. Ernest Gordon, the Trinity choirs, clergy, and lay readers will join readers from the University Chapel in proclaiming the Christmas prophesies and Christmas story in Scripture and in carols.

The combined choirs of 160 voices, conducted by James Litton with Frank Boles, organist, will sing traditional English, Czech, and Polish carols as well as medieval and modern carols. At various points throughout the service, the congregation will join the choirs in singing favorite Christmas hymns.

The lessons and carols service has been presented at Trinity Church on the Sunday after Christmas for over 25 years, and this is the first year that it will leave the church and move to the University Chapel. The service is open to the public.

LITURGISTS TO MEET

At Seminary. More than 150 liturgists from all denominations, Christian and Jewish, will meet on the Princeton Seminary campus January 2-5 to consider the problems and possibilities of their aspect of theology.

All aspects of liturgical studies, from music and architecture to historical and theological concerns, will be dealt with in 12 concurrent study sections.

A highlight of the events will be presentation of the annual Berakah Awards in Liturgical Studies to Dr. Horton M. Davies. Dr. Davies, a member of the faculties of both Princeton Seminary and Princeton University, will address the award dinner participants on "A Protestant Vindication of Liturgics."

BOOKLET AVAILABLE

For Lenten Meditations. For the fourth consecutive year, black churches related to the Consultation on Church Union have published a booklet of daily Lenten meditations related to liberation and unity.

The 1979 Lenten booklet, edited by the Rev. John E. Brandon, associate general secretary of COCU, has been published by the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church publishing house in Memphis, Tenn. The booklet is called a guide for "meditation and action" on the subject of liberation and unity and contains daily messages for the period February 28, 1979, until Easter Sunday, April 15.

It interprets the meaning of Lent from the black religious experience. It is designed to urge church people to pray and work for the total liberation of oppressed persons. The booklet can be ordered for 50 cents per copy, or 40 cents for orders of more than 100, from the Consultation on Church Union, 228 Alexander Street.

Only 3 men in history have ever won the Heisman Trophy as the best player in college football, and then played in the Super Bowl in pro football ... The only 3 to do it are Roger Staubach who won the Heisman in 1963, and played with Dallas in the Super Bowl ... Mike Garrett who won the Heisman in 1965, and played with Kansas City in the Super Bowl ... And, Tony Dorsett who won the Heisman in 1976 and played with Dallas in the Super Bowl.

Here's an oddity about the top big league baseball pitcher of 1978 -- Ron Guidry ... Guidry won 25 games in 1978 and lost only 3 -- and each of his 3 losses were to an opposing pitcher named Mike ... The only games Guidry lost last season were to Mike Caldwell of Milwaukee, Mike Flanagan of Baltimore and Mike Willis of Toronto.

Analysis of Basketball at Princeton Reveals Current Downward Trend May Gain Momentum

As the new year is about to dawn, there is a truly disturbing thought for the future circulating in the confines of Jadwin Gymnasium, where attendance at basketball games is reaching new laws: the sport here at Princeton is apparently in deep trouble.

The suspicion that this is so, spawned by an evaluation of the available personnel when the season began, banished -- for 48 hours -- by the euphoria emanating from the upset of Villanova, was roundly confirmed last week by the astonishingly poor performance the team gave in losing (53-45) to an astonishingly inept University of New Orleans team.

The problem is not only that the quality of the personnel on the 14-man roster lacks ability to play consistently well but that the one player of above-average status (Bob Roma) is a senior. Unless a major miracle unfolds in Jadwin Gym next season, in the form of a good big man who can fit into varsity basketball as a freshman, the Tigers will take the court with five players who lack impressive potential this winter, none of whom is more than 6-5.

The difficulty is compounded by the fact that the balance the Ivy League has long-lacked -- for a decade or more, it was almost invariably a two-ream race between Princeton and Penn -- is returning to other campuses as visibly as the mercury rises in the thermometer on a hot afternoon. Dartmouth this season has already knocked off Holy Cross, Cornlell has triumphed over Niagara and Canisius, Columbia emerged from the depths three years ago and perennial weakness persists only at Yale and Brown. Next year's schedule is also far more difficult for the Tigers: the absence of any tournaments this season will be compensated for by one at St. John's to open the 1979-80 action and by a long-awaited post-Christmas tournament in Hawaii, where the Rainbow Classic will attract several top-rated teams.

A Tradition of Pride. For nearly three decades, basketball at Princeton has been a source of pride and enjoyment to Tiger alumni and thousands of others who wish the Orange and Black well. The era began shortly after World War II, when the late Cappy Cappon was making bricks without straw, moulding Ivy League champions with players who had no business beating other teams of greater ability but did so with considerable frequency.

The Cappon years were followed by the propulsion of Princeton into the national spotlight by Bill Bradley, who created such a following for the Ivy League upstarts that when the news of a Tiger triumph over some national power was put over the public address system in Madison Square Garden, the uproar ran well up on the decibel scale.

Bradley left for Oxford and the Knickerbockers, but John Hummer, Geoff Petrie, Chris Thomforde, Ted Manakas, Brian Taylor, Mickey Steurer, Armond Hill, Barnes Hauptfuhrer, Bill Omeltchenko, Frank Sowinski and a host of others in highly capable supporting roles followed. With Roma's arrival three years ago, however, the faucet has -- possibly temporarily -- run dry.

Here and there, a spark may develop. Because of the dearth of more experienced material coincident with the eligibility of freshmen for varsity play, Neil Christel has become the first member of his class to earn a starting assignment in the sport at Princeton.

He and Roma are the only two who have been on the floor for the tapoff for all nine games this season, and he will develop into a solid player -- in time. So should the sophomore guards, Dave Blatt and Steve Mills, and sophomore forward Randy Melville, but the rest of this squad are classmates of Roma's -- John Lewis, Tom Young, Tim Olah and the little-used Roger Schmitt. If the current season -- 5-4, with a pronounced downhill trend -- is somewhat dismaying, wait, as the saying goes, until next year.

Hard Team to Lose To. All five of his starters from a championship 21-6 team having graduated, one-time Princeton coach Butch Van Breda Kolff brought one skilled forward and nine ordinary players to Jadwin Gymnasium last Wednesday. In the first five and a half minutes, they took 16 shots, made one of them, and missed two free throws.

After 15 minutes of play, they had just seven points and at the end of the first half, they had 19, with a floor-shooting average of 25 percent. But they won the ball game.

To lose to that kind of opposition, it was necessary for Princeton to record a full-game field goal average of 37 percent, to do no better than 64 percent at the free-throw line, to commit 23 personal fouls in tight man-to-man guarding against 11 for the visitors, and to be outrebounded, 38 to 22. All this the Tigers managed, losing a nine-point lead in the early going, dropping from a 23-19 advantage at the half to a 36-all tie midway through the final period and never regaining the lead thereafter.

Roma collected 17 points but needed 16 shots to hit seven field goals. The Tigers threw ghost passes to teammates who weren't even looking for the ball, lost rebounds on foul shots under their own basket, and consistently forced field goal attempts rather than wait for the good shot. With their rebounding as inadequate as it was, they rarely had a second try.

New Orleans's Mike Edwards dominated the action with 20 points and 13 rebounds, a performance that easily tipped the balance in the ragged contest. The officiating was largely inconsistent, but the zebras played no favorites when it came to assessing technical fouls.

Butch Van Breda Kolff drew one when he told the referee rather warmly that if the whistle had been in his mouth, he would have blown an infraction he thought the latter had overlooked. Pete Carril got one later when a wet towel tossed at the umpire symbolized his feelings over a call that went against him. The game even started on an odd note -- the referee actually had trouble tossing the ball up properly for the opening tapoff. It was a tough evening all around, but the likelihood is that there are more to come.

Next Game Saturday. St. Peter's of Jersey City, which has never before appeared on the Princeton schedule, will rectify that omission when it plays in Jadwin Gym Saturday night at 8. The Peacocks were only 8-18 last winter but have a baker's dozen lettermen and four starters returning. If the Tigers don't put out for the game after a ten-day layoff, their record will drop to .500.

Thereafter, 16 games remain -- 14 in Ivy action and two in January against a pair of Long Island quintets -- Hofstra and L.I.U. Half of the 16 are on the road.

The first weekend in the new year will involve a New England trip, to Dartmouth on Friday, January 5, and from there to Harvard the next night. Even with sub-par opposition in the past, this journey has posed its problems for the Tigers, although they have rarely lost in the past decade either at Hanover or at Cambridge.

It is not inconceivable, in the face of their current difficulties and in view of the improvement of both these opponents, that they might lose them both. Penn here on Saturday, January 13, is next on the schedule, and if the Orange and Black should somehow be 0-3 after that, the Ivy League race would proceed without Princeton as a factor for the first time in more than 20 years.

Tiger Basketball Ranks High Nationally Over Last Five Years, Statistics Show

Clear indication of the mark Princeton basketball has achieved nationally in the last five years is provided by five sets of statistics compiled by the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

- The Tiger's defense against scoring, which has yielded just 55.97 points a game from the 1972-73 season through last March, tops them all.
- Princeton's accuracy from the foul line is also no. 1. Its five-year average of .75789 is .00002 better than Vanderbilt's percentage.
- In defense against the field goal, the Orange and Black's average of 43 percent allowed to the opposition ranks seventh nationally.
- Princeton's margin of scoring (offense over defense) of 9.41 over the five-year span is 18th best in the nation.
- Its field goal shooting percentage of .497 is also 18th.

annual Rensselaer Polytech Tournament.

A three-day affair, the event will begin Thursday, the Orange and Black opposing the Air Force Academy. The meeting will be the second between the two teams, the Falcons having won the first game six years ago when they played in the Bowdoin Tournament in Maine.

St. Lawrence Friday and a game with the host team Saturday will complete Princeton's part in the round-robin. None of the entries is unusually strong, with St. Lawrence and R.P.I. standing -- with Princeton -- in the bottom quarter of ECAC Division 1. Last winter, the Orange and Black upended St. Lawrence, 4 to 1, but was beaten by R.P.I., 3 to 1.

Saturday's contest will be the eighth straight on the road for the young Tiger sextet, which will journey for still another next Wednesday. It will be in Hamilton, N.Y., to face Colgate, Coach Jim Higgins's former college before he came here a year ago. R.P.I. will then be in Baker Rink on Saturday, January 6, for Princeton's first appearance there since December 1.

Minnesota Wins Pair by 6-2. The Tigers' trip last week to Minneapolis for back-to-back games against the University of Minnesota Friday and Saturday resulted in a pair of losses, each by a 6-2 score. The Gophers (13-4) are rated no. 1 among college teams in the nation, so the Orange and Black's performance was hardly dismaying.

Minnesota took a 1-0 lead in the first period of the opening game but the Tigers evened matters shortly thereafter when sophomore defenseman Rob Sherstobitoff fed junior forward Cliff Lawrick. The Orange and Black has had its problems scoring, but support for the various lines from the defense has been evident, a factor that has not always worked for the Tigers in the past.

The home team held a 3-1 lead after 20 minutes and was invariably in control of the action. A backhand shot by another sophomore defenseman, Terry Seaman, provided the other Princeton goal. Senior Will Schmedes, who wasn't even listed on the pre-season roster, made his first start in goal against the nation's best team, and gave a good account of himself throughout the contest.

In the second game, a breakaway goal by freshman Ken Koenig in the first period brought the visitors even at 1 before the Gophers broke out to a 4-1 margin in the middle round. Craig Tresham's goal narrowed the gap, but Princeton came no closer. Schmedes and Scott Sillcox divided the goal-tending duties as the victors put 39 shots on target.

PHS PLAY THURSDAY

In New Brunswick Tourney. The consolation and championship games of the New Brunswick Christmas Classic at New Brunswick High School in which the Princeton High School girls basketball team is one of four teams competing will be held Thursday. The consolation game will start at 6, the final at 7:30.

PHS played South River and Trenton opposed host New Brunswick in opening games. The Little Tigers will resume league action on Tuesday when they play host to St. Anthony in a 3:45 contest.

Coach Joyce Jones's PHS team continued to find the early part of the schedule a rocky road as the Blue and White lost two last week. In both, PHS fell far behind in the first period.

Maple Point opened up a 19-4 lead in the initial period Thursday en route to a 50-39 win, outshooting PHS from the floor, 24-12. Cindy Hines and Tam Hemingway combined for 12 points for PHS which lost its third without a win. Maple Point won its sixth in ten starts.

Earlier in the week, Hamilton blitzed PHS 17-4 in the first period, ending with a 62-42 win. Sarah Glinka and Hines each had ten points to pace the losers.

WILKINSON LEADS PHS

In Mercer Mat Tournament. Matt Wilkinson, Princeton High School's undefeated 108-pound wrestler, will head a Little Tiger wrestling team which will compete in the Mercer County annual Christmas Wrestling Tournament Friday and Saturday at Notre Dame High School.

Although seedings will not be released until Thursday, Wilkinson is virtually certain to be ranked number one in his class. PHS coach Tom Murray also looks for Bruce Cobb, Mike Santoro and Gary Carnevale to perform well in the event, which PHS won last year.

Other schools competing include Ewing, Steinert, Trenton, Hamilton, Hopewell Valley, Hightstown, Lawrence, West Windsor, Allentown and Notre Dame. Preliminary matches will begin Friday evening at 6. The consolation matches will be held Saturday at 1, the finals at 7.

"Out of Our Class." "They're totally out of our class," commented Murray in the wake of Friday's 59-5 rout by powerful North Hunterdon but Murray still maintained PHS "can't do anything but profit" from wrestling such teams.

Only Wilkinson, who won a 3-0 decision, and Santoro, who battled to a 2-2 draw in his 148-pound match, were able to stem the Lion tide, which included eight pins, three coming in less than a minute.

Lopsided as the score was, Murray pointed out that PHS had a chance of winning three other matches. Luciano Procaccini was in a scoreless battle until the final seconds when his opponent gained a reversal to win a 3-0 decision in the 170-pound bout.

John Tazelaar at 135 was ahead before he got pinned in 4:11 and Brent Robinson (141) possibly could have won if he had been at the top of his ability, Murray said. Robinson was pinned in 5:39.

Robinson injured his ankle when he was struck during the weekend by a car at a shopping mall and will be lost to the team for a minimum of three weeks, Murray reported. He will be replaced by Ben Navarro.

First Win. Princeton, 16-1 last year, captured its first dual meet win earlier in the week when it came on with a rush to defeat North Brunswick, 42-22.

Carnevale had a pin in 4:37 at 158 pounds, Procaccini followed with a pin in 2:20, there was a double default at 188 and PHS heavyweight Marco Nini won by forfeit. PHS picked up another six points when North Brunswick

LEAGUE GAME TUESDAY

For PHS Quintet. The Princeton High School basketball team will play its first Colonial Valley League contest Tuesday when it travels to St. Anthony for an 8 p.m. tapoff.

Coach Marvin Trotman is hoping the new year will be a better one for his Little Tigers, who are presently participating in the Kennedy Memorial Basketball Tournament at Delaware Valley High School in Frenchtown. They entered the tourney still looking for their first win after three games.

Taking part, besides PHS, are Delaware Valley, Hopewell Valley, North Hunterdon, Whitehall, Voorhees, Middlesex, and South Hunterdon. The opening round losers will play games at 4, 5:30, 7 and 8:30 Thursday evening, and the consolations will be held Saturday afternoon at 2:30, 4 and 5:45. The championship game will start at 7.

Hun Vs. Newark. A 47-44 loser to Princeton Day School Friday, despite a game-high 28 points by Arvie Powell, the Hun School basketball team will resume play next Friday against Newark Academy. Hun has won seven of its first ten games.

CHAMPIONSHIPS HERE

In Eastern Wrestling. Princeton University will host the 75th annual Eastern Intercollegiate Wrestling Association Championships February 24 and 25 for the first time since 1969. Jadwin Gym was host to the NCAA National Wrestling Championships in 1975.

Action will begin at 11 on Saturday with the quarterfinals at 6 that night. The semi-finals and preliminary consolations are set for 11 on Sunday with the finals at 7 that evening. The final consolations will preceed the championship bouts and will start at 5:30.

Perennial eastern power Lehigh will head a group of 16 colleges that will compete for the team title as well as ten individual championships. Princeton, the defending Eastern League title holder; Army, Navy and Syracuse are among the other top entries that will be vying for the team crown in the event that dates back to 1905.

Information regarding tickets may be obtained by writing to: Ticket Office, P.O. Box 71, Jadwin Gym, Princeton, or by calling 452-3538 between 9 and 2 Monday through Friday.

PDS STARTING TO ROLL

Avenges Earlier Hun Loss. Seven games into the season, there is no question that the Princeton Day basketball team is becoming a more polished outfit, but there is still plenty of room for improvement according to coach Alan Taback.

Taback is obviously pleased with his team's six victories in seven outings. He praised the consistent play of Jamie Bartolomei both as a shooter and a rebounder. "He's a steady team player," Taback commented.

However, he still is looking for more from his squad. "We're playing better, but not as well as we can," Taback noted. "We're still not totally cohesive."

Taback knows he needs a smoothly-running unit if PDS is to do well the rest of the way. It faces a stiff challenge this week in the Hamilton Christmas Tournament.

The Panthers will face Steinert Wednesday evening in the first round of the four-team affair, while Hamilton will play Essex Catholic. Steinert at 1-4 has not gotten off to a good start this season, and PDS should have the edge in this one. It will still take a solid performance from all hands to wind up in the finals on Friday.

There the Blue and White will probably be facing the host team, which has not lost a game so far. "It would be a tremendous thing for PDS basketball if we could go down there and win this thing," commented Taback.

Two Close Ones. If the score is close down the stretch, the Panthers will have plenty of experience after two games last week. Both came right down to the wire, and in both, PDS had the ability to end up on top.

Before a big home crowd last Friday night, PDS took on Hun, hoping to gain revenge for its one loss of the season, a 44-39 defeat by the Raiders in the semi-finals of the Peddie tournament.

It was not a well played game at least for the first half. Hun managed to scratch out a 13-10 lead at the end of the first period, but the Blue and White pulled even at the intermission, 19-19.

In the third period, PDS managed to take control just enough to stay slightly ahead, but never could widen the margin because of the tremendous outside shooting of Arvie Powell, who wound up with a game-high 28 points.

As the clock wound down in the fourth and the score tied at 42 all, PDS got a key three-point play from Bartolomei off a nice assist from Carl Hill. With less than half a minute left, the Blue and White had a chance to virtually wrap it up, but Jim Cox missed a sure two points. Powell came down and pumped in another long jumper, to bring Hun within one.

With 15 seconds left, PDS managed to kill the clock and even got an insurance basket to boot. Bartolomei had 18 to lead PDS, Cox had 8, Hill was held to a season low of seven.

Two days earlier PDS got its first victory ever in the Rutgers Prep gym, winning another cliff hanger. Starting quickly, the Panthers looked like they might have an easy time of it, building a 19-12 lead through the first quarter. However, the home team rallied in the second, outscoring the Panthers 18-9, and took a 30-28 lead into the dressing room at the half.

It was nip and tuck thereafter, finally coming down to the final 18 seconds, with Rutgers Prep holding a two-point lead and the ball. The stall backfired, however, as Hill managed to tie up the Rutgers Prep center and gain a jump ball.

Rutgers Prep got the tap, but Hill wound up with the ball and hit on a long jump shot to tie the contest at 64 apiece. He missed a chance at a three-point play, but this time Cox forced a jump ball with six seconds remaining.

He got the tap, and was fouled on his shot. After a time out called by Rutgers Prep to try and rattle him, Cox calmly sank two free throws to win the game, 66-64. Hill was high man for the Panthers with 23, Cox had 16 and Bartolomei, 15.

FAMILIAR FIGURE AT ANNEX RESTAURANT: Michael Carnevale (center), founder and former owner of The Annex Restaurant, displays a pieque given to him by Henry (ieft) and Luigi Carnevale, present owners, for 30 years of service. Although Mr. Cernevale sold the restaurent 12 years ago to his two cousins, he has continued to be active as manager of the bar and grill.

Michael Carnevale Considered Retirement In 1966 But Is Still Active at the Annex

When he sold The Annex -- the Nassau Street restaurant speciatizing in Italian-American food at reasonable prices – to his cousins in 1966, Michael Carnevale told TOWN TOPICS that his "gradual year-to-year retirement might take some time."

Accordingly, for the past 12 years, Mr. Carnevale, one of the best known figures on Nassau Street, has continued to manage the bar and grill for Henry and Luigi Carnevale. But 1978 marks the 30th anniversary of Michael Carnevale's association with the Annex, and at a recent party in his honor, Henry and Luigi presented him with a plaque inscribed "in appreciation for 30 years of untiring service."

Mr. Carnevale came to Princeton in 1922 from Campobasso, Italy, with his wife Lucy whom he married in 1920. Trained as a shoemaker and speaking no English, he first worked in the building and grounds department at Princeton University. Then he found a job with a shoemaker in a little shop where Lahiere's cocktail lounge is now. When the owner died, the business was purchased by Hulit's Shoes, and he worked for a number of years in their store on Nassau Street.

In 1948 with his brother-in-law John Gianantonio, Mr. Carnevale purcbased the liquor license from "The Old Annex" and set up a restaurant and bar in a small shop in the Allen's building at 134 Nassau Street. Two years later, The Annex moved to its present location at 128½ Nassau Street. Here in a genial atmosphere of red-checked tables placed close together, the restaurant continues to serve families and individuals, professors and carpenters, in a notable mingling of Town and Gown.

Sought to Bridge Gaps. In December, 1966, at the time of the sale of the business to Henry and Luigi, Michael Carnevale was named TOWN TOPICS' Man of the Week. He was cited for "constantty seeking to bridge the gaps all too often separating the component parts of the community to which he is so deeply devoted; (and) for giving substance to the belief that these United States are the 'tand of opportunity.'"

The latter part of the citation is borne out in the achievements of the Carnevale's two sons, Michael, who is Chief of Police of Princetoin Borough, and Anthony, a staff assistant in the Camden Division of AT&T Long Lines, and their daughter, whose husband is a senior vice president of Johns Manville in Denver, Colo. Pictures of nine grandchildren at various ages line the walls of their neat home on Linden Lane, and Mr. Carnevale is proud to point out that four of them will be college graduates come June.

Having turned 77 in November and being possessed of robust health and good nature, Mr. Carnevale recommends a three-point program: "Don't worry about things, be nice to the people, and get some fresh air every day." He says he takes a glass of wine or beer occasionally, "but I never abuse myself."

In speaking of his 30 years at The Annex, he has nothing but praise for the customers -- "they have been so nice to us" – and for the good job "those two boys are doing there" now. Although he very much enjoys being at the restaurant, he probably will do some travelling now to Canada to visit relatives, and to Denver to see his daughter. He is a member of the Italian American Sportsmen's Club and Roma Eterna, and expects to spend some time playing cards with fellow members in addition to time spent taking care of things around the house.

He speaks with the contented air of a mao who was successful at his work and whose gradual retirement has also been a success.

OBITUARIES

Philip K. Hitti, professor of Semitic literature on the William and Annie S. Paton Foundation, emeritus, at Princeton University died on December 24 at the Merwick Unit of Princeton Medical Center following a long illness. He was 92 years old.

Prof. Hitti was the first director of Princeton's pioneering Near Eastern Studies Program and was widely considered the top authority in the United States on Arabic and Islamic culture. He retired in 1954 after 28 years as a member of the university's faculty. He was the first person in any American university to understand and promote the importance of the Arab world for the United States.

A native of Shimlan, Lebanon, Prof. Hitti was a consultant to several government agencies, and in 1945 he was an adviser to the Arab States delegations at the organization meeting of the United Nations in San Francisco.

A prolific writer in his field, many of his books have gone through several editions and have been translated into numerous languages. His best known work is "History of the Arabs," a classic which first appeared in 1937 and has gone through 11 editions and numerous printings. It is still a standard in the field.

In April 1956 the Lebanese government bestowed its highest civilian decoration – the Medal of the Cedars of commander's rank -- upon him. And in 1978 the Egyptian government conferred on him the Order of Merit, First Class. Egyptian Ambassador Asraf Ghorbal especially praised his work in Arab history.

Prof. Hitti was graduated from the American University of Beirut in 1908, when he joined the faculty there and taught until he came to the United States in 1913 as a representative to a world students' conference. He remained to take his doctorate at Columbia, and taught there from 1915 to 1920 when he returned to the American University of Beirut.

He was called to Princeton in 1926 as an assistant professor of Semitic literature and became an associate professor in 1929. In 1936, he was elevated to professor of Semitic literature on the William and Annie S. Paton Foundation. He was chairman of his department from 1944 to 1954, and acting chairman from 1941 to 1944.

He was active for many years in a number of organizations related to the study of Near Eastern language and politics and the promotion of international cultural associations.

Prof. Hitti is survived by his daughter Mrs. Viola H. Winder of Princeton; by a grandson, Bayly Philip Winder of Princeton and New York City; by a brother, Dr. Joseph Hitti, and a sister, Mrs. Najib Jabbour, both of Beirut, Lebanon. His late wife, Mary, died in 1976.

A memorial service will be held in the Princeton University Chapel on Friday at 11. The family has requested that in lieu of flowers contributions be made to the Philip K. Hitti Fellowship Fund at Princeton University.

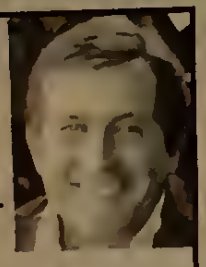
LET'S TALK ABOUT



HOW TO PUT YULE TREE TO USE AFTER CHRISTMAS

with Sam deTuro

When a Chrisimas tree is taken down, put it to good use around the garden.

Sever boughs, and place the smaller ones, curved ends up, around plantings or on the garden beds when the ground is free of snow. This acts as a mulch, reducing thermal fluctuation and preventing frost heaving.

Larger branches can be used to build teepee-like protection over Laurel, Cotoneaster, hybrid Azeleas, and other tender plants. Or needles can be stripped from the branches and scattered beneath such acid-loving plants as Azaleas, Rhododendron, Andromeda, and Laurel.

Some people erect the tree in the backyerd after Christmas and convert it into a bird feeder. A fir is ideal for this purpose, because it retains its needles for a long time. Pieces of suet, popcorn, peanut butter, and other morsels of food are then tied to the outer branches. Always keep a pail of water nearby, for birds must have water as well as food.

Year-End Review

As always, people made news, often by nothing more than doing a first-rate job throughout their lives.

Frank Soda, "Mr. Foreign Languages" at the high school since 1954, retired this month. Three Borough officials announced their retirements: Administrator Robert F. Mooney and Health Officer David Blake for next spring, welfare director Jane Ahrens this October.

Commuters have been traveling since 1942 with Dinky Conductor John Bancroft, who retired in May of this year. Research librarian Helen Fairbanks left Firestone Library after 30 years – but is still Princeton governments' "watchdog."

Princeton residents with established careers made news: Miguel Ondetti of Squibb, was part of a team that announced a new drug which reduces high blood-pressure without adverse side effects. Patricia Kidd, vice-president of Astro Publications, was elected president of the Princeton Jaycees one week after the national organization voted to keep the Jaycees "for men only."

Leonard Williams, of the health department, engineered the town's first union vote by municipal employees. Result: Borough blue-collar workers decided "yes;" white-collar, "no."

Probably the youngest "name" in Princeton's news was that of Michael Hunninghake. In January, his skill brought him the national championship in the eight-year-old Punt, Pass and Kick competition at the Superbowl. No retirement for him -- this month, he advanced to the semi-finals of the nine-year old competition.

Politically, a familiar face came back on Borough Council as Republican Charles Cornforth won election. In the spring, Gus Escher resigned from Council, fellow Democrat Richard Macgill was named to replace him and won on his own in November. Republican Josie Hall also won in November, and is expected to remain as Township Mayor.

Necrotogy. Sadly, there will be faces missed in Princeton, in years to come.

Township Police Lieutenant Michael G. Lisi, who had survived heart surgery some years ago, died in January, as did Carl C. Schafer Sr., former fire chief and Hook and Ladder member. In February, the town lost Charles Draine, who had for years operated the real estate firm founded by his father.

Mary Krimmel, organist and choir director for the Nassau Presbyterian Church and its ancestor, the First Presbyterian Church, died in May. This November, Princeton lost Nancy Baldwin Smith, who had served as president of the library's board of trustees during construction of the present library. Burton F. Weisbecker Jr. died tragically when he was struck by the Dinky shuttle train.

In years past, people who made sizzling news were often embroiled in public school controversies. This year, (apart from "Moonchildren") the closest Princeton came to a school sizzter was Superintendent Paul Houston's evaluation of Princeton High School.

"I pulled few punches, purposely, because I wanted a focus for action," he announced when his report was published.

One high school staff member, who felt the staff needed defense, declared in a public meeting that teachers had "a full-time job just bringing the school back to sanity" after the social revolutions and personality clashes of previous years. "Not much credit has been given" she said ruefully.

As the year ended, the Superintendent announced creation of a new post: Director of Secondary Education to bring Middle School and High School into closer co-ordination, and to work with each on long-range plans.

Drug Arrests. A community goes about its daily business, sometimes unaware of what's going on beneath the surface. In the records of Borough and Township police for 1978, that sub-surface life comes into full and often tragic view.

In December -- almost exactly a year after a similar event -- Borough police arrested 22 persons in the largest Princeton University campus drug arrest on record. One of those arrested is said to have sold $1,000 worth of cocaine to an undercover agent.

The pre-dawn raid was made by 25 of the Borough's 31-officer force, eight Princeton University proctors (who were informed of the raid less than an hour before it occurred) and staff from the Mercer County Prosecutor's office.

The University repeated its firm policy: "We do not condone drugs," and Borough Police Chief Michael Carnevale warned students: "Princeton University is not a sanctuary."

Crime Report. For the average citizen, there was more worry about "breaking and entering" (burglary of a house) or street purse-snatching, and Chief Carnevale announced formation of a "Crime Prevention Unit" to help householders and owners of businesses improve their security. In October, the chief said that "b's and e's" were higher than a year ago. In February, a Trenton school bus driver admitted the rape of a 14-year-old Princeton jogger the previous October.

In April, Leigh Avenue resident William L. Page was fatally stabbed.

Sometimes the news lightens and brightens ... remember B. Edward Key? He's the -- ah -- "artist" who successfully smuggled his own "abstract" canvas into the University's Art Museum as an example of contemporary art. The trick worked for a while, until somebody on the museum staff discovered the canvas.

"I find the whole idea of how easy it is to make modern art, very boring," was the cool response of assistant curator Allen Rosenbaum. Worse -- he said he didn't think Key had any talent.

Old Inn Saved. While Princeton was watching new buildings go up and discussing the fate of buildings not yet up, (or in business for a couple of centuries), next-door neighbors had business to attend to, also.

Barely, just barely, the Lawrence Historical Society managed to save the Princessville Inn, on Mercer Road between Lawrenceville and Princeton. West Windsor citizens rejected, in December, a new middle-school building, and wondered whether the proposed $35 million shopping-parking-office-apartment complex would make it to ground-breaking.

Montgomery Township residents shook their fists at the sky -- or, rather, at Princeton Airport noises which they said were disturbing the warm September air. The airport voluntarily took measures to help.

Hopewell's taxpayers spent part of the summer in outrage at new valuations of their property -- and a crest-fallen assessor conceded he's made some mistakes. In October, a Rouse Mall one-sixteenth the size of the one proposed, in 1973, was suggested by its developers.

If the year showed anything, it showed the power of an aroused citizenry. Death and taxes may be inevitable and bridge and sewer construction may block off the very road you wish to travel, but get up a petition and who knows? In Princeton, you could win.

As always, from TOWN TOPICS, warmest wishes for a good year in this good town ...

—Katharine H. Bretnall

CHRISTMAS

Is There A Santa Claus?

The following, reprinted from the editorial page of the New York Sun, was written by the late Mr. Frank P. Church:

We take pleasure in answering at once and thus prominently the communication below, expressing at the same time our great gratification that its faithful author is numbered among the friends of The Sun:

Dear Editor: I am 8 years old.
Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.
Papa says "If you see it in The Sun it's so."
Please tell me the truth; is there a Santa Claus?

Virginia O'Hanlon.

Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the scepticism of a sceptical age. They do not believe except they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, Virginia, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! he lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.
